

Naloxone (Narcan)

Naloxone, also known as Narcan, is the lifesaving opioid overdose reversal medication. Narcan can reverse a fatal dosage of opioids by temporarily blocking the effects of the drug. This revives the person, allowing time to access medical attention. Good Samaritan laws in CT protect people who administer Naloxone or Call 911 for a medical emergency related to an overdose.

Naloxone (Narcan) can be administered through an IV, an intramuscular shot, or most commonly, as a nasal spray– which is simple to administer. The price of Narcan varies depending on the source. With insurance coverage, most customers end up paying a small co-pay between $10-$25.

As of 2015, CT Legislation allows trained pharmacists to prescribe and dispense Narcan directly to customers requesting it, no prescription necessary. Naloxone is available to anyone who wants it– friends, caregivers, neighbors and family members are all encouraged to receive training and carry a kit. Pharmacists will review how to use the device, signs of an overdose, and any remaining questions you may have when you pick up your Narcan.
